

INTERNATIONAL PROGRAMS
& PARTNERSHIPS

ANNUAL REPORT 2023-2024

Unlocking New Study Abroad
Opportunities

INTERNATIONAL PROGRAMS & PARTNERSHIPS

Unlocking New Study Abroad Opportunities

TABLE OF CONTENTS

---

Meet the International Team

---

Undergraduate and Graduate Program Highlights

---

Undergraduate Programs

Study Abroad Participation.....	6
Scholarships .....	9
Academic Degree Decisions.....	3
International Business Major.....	10
First Year Experience.....	11
Faculty Directed Programs.....	12
Exchanges & Internships.....	13

---

Graduate Programs

Professional MBA.....	15
Full-Time MBA .....	15
Executive MBAs .....	16

MEET THE INTERNATIONAL TEAM

Sara Easler, PhD

is the Assistant Dean of International Programs & Partnerships for the University of Tennessee, Knoxville, Haslam College of Business, responsible for the development of international strategy, relationships and identifying international education.

Lauren Jacobs, PhD
Director

International Programs
& Study Abroad

Andrea Elliott
Assistant Director

International Programs
& Study Abroad

Rachel Gatsche
Program Manager

International Programs
& Partnerships

Courtney Coyle
Senior Program Coordinator

International Programs
& Study Abroad

Maddie Vanderhoofven
Program Coordinator

International Programs
& Study Abroad

Amber Rosamond
Program Coordinator

International Programs
& Study Abroad

Jaelen White
Program Coordinator

International Programs
& Study Abroad

INTERNATIONAL PROGRAMS & PARTNERSHIPS

Unlocking New Opportunities

The 2023-2024 academic year saw growth in study abroad participation across new and exciting locations, as well as a deeper engagement in international internships, exchanges and short-term programs. From a new faculty-directed program for undergraduates in Portugal, to a novel consultancy project for Full-Time MBA students in Argentina, Haslam students pushed the envelope of cultural immersion and the international application of their business knowledge and practices.

Figure 1. Study abroad locations for 2023-24.

41% of all UT undergraduate and graduate students who studied abroad were Haslam students

Undergraduate and Graduate Study Abroad Highlights

Looking back at 2023-24, the Haslam College of Business led UT in study abroad participation for both graduate and undergraduate programs.

Figure 2. Study abroad participation by college for 2023-24 academic year.

38% of UT undergraduates who studied abroad were Haslam students

UNDERGRADUATE

22%

of 2023-24 Haslam graduates studied abroad during their undergraduate careers

91%

of Haslam undergraduates who study abroad graduate in four years

GRADUATE

68%

of all UT graduate students who studied abroad were Haslam students

24%

growth in study abroad participation over the last three academic years

Undergraduate Study Abroad Participation

Haslam students studied across Latin America, Europe, Asia and Oceania during the past academic year, with an 18 percent growth in experiences, as well as an increase of student participation, with 593 students traveling to locations spanning five continents.

Figure 3. Study abroad participation by Haslam undergraduate students.

STUDY ABROAD PARTICIPATION & GROWTH

Figure 4. Study abroad growth by term.

Undergraduate Programs Non-traditional Locations

Not only did participation expand across various locations, but Haslam International Programs and Partnerships also saw increased interest and engagement in less traditional study abroad destinations.

Czech Republic

- Participants: 12 students
- Program Type: affiliate and internship
- Program Length: spring and summer

Cuba

- Participants: 19 students
- Program Type: faculty-directed First-Year Experience
- Program Length: Winter Mini-Term

Australia

- Participants: nine students
- Program Type: affiliate, internship and exchange
- Program Length: spring and summer

Colombia

- Participants: two students
- Program Type: affiliate
- Program Length: spring and fall

Participation by Program

Haslam undergraduate students had a range of study abroad options to choose from in 2023-24, with 43 percent of undergraduate students choosing to study abroad with Haslam faculty.

STUDY ABROAD PARTICIPATION BY PROGRAM

Figure 5. Study abroad participation by program type.

Participation by Major

Haslam students majoring in marketing, finance and supply chain management made up the most of international program participants.

STUDY ABROAD PARTICIPATION BY MAJOR

Figure 6. Study abroad participation by major.

Undergraduate Scholarships

$210,225

in scholarship funds was awarded in 2023-24.

AVERAGE
AWARD AMOUNT:
$1,730

TOTAL AWARD
RECIPIENTS:
123

52%
OF RECIPIENTS
HAD FINANCIAL NEED

Academic Degree Decisions

International business (IB) as a collateral or concentration continued as the top choice for undergraduate students, with more than 21 percent of juniors and seniors selecting IB in spring 2024.

Collaterals and Concentration Totals

Figure 7. Academic degree decisions by collaterals and concentrations.

International Business Double Major

The new IB double major saw tremendous cohort growth in 2023-24, with participation nearly doubling from the first to the second cohort. IB students study abroad for one full semester and are required to take three advanced foreign language courses at the 300+ level. The semester before graduation, each cohort takes the IB 460: Global Capstone Course, where they apply learned international business knowledge and concepts into a cohesive final assignment.

"My time studying in the French Riviera at SKEMA Business School changed the way I view myself academically and personally. I saw myself grow as a student in ways I never expected. Everyone always says that studying abroad is the best thing you can do and it will change your life, I am extremely happy to say I completely agree."

Gannon Yocum, member of first IB major cohort

IB Double Majors studied abroad in:

Spain

Italy

France

Japan

Germany

27

ADMITTED
STUDENTS

3.71

AVERAGE
GPA

7

ADVANCED
FOREIGN LANGUAGES

2025

SPRING: FIRST COHORT
GRADUATION DATE

7

BUSINESS
MAJORS
REPRESENTED

Undergraduate Program Overview

First-Year Experience

Returning to Cuba for the first time since 2019, 19 students traveled for an eight-day program in January 2024, where they experienced the cross-section of politics, entrepreneurship, foreign-direct investment and agriculture in Cuba's unique geo-political environment.

In addition to Cuba, 21 first-year students studied abroad in Costa Rica, experiencing the “Pura Vida” culture while exploring the country's position on environmental and business sustainability measures.

With 218 Haslam undergraduate students engaged in 11 faculty-directed programs, students were fully immersed in local culture through onsite business visits, cultural activities and group excursions.

Nine faculty-directed destinations included: Chile, Germany, Greece, Iceland, Italy, Panama, Portugal and the United Kingdom

Faculty-Directed Programs

NEW Program Highlight: Portugal

19 students visited local and multinational businesses, experiencing Portugal's growth as a tech and start up center within Europe.

Faculty-Directed Programs

Global Supply Chain

Thirty-nine students engaged in two faculty-directed programs, one in Greece and the other in Panama, both of which centered on the study of global supply chain in action. From experiencing front-line decision making at the Panama Canal, to studying financial and operational tradeoffs in supply chain for Greek firms, Haslam students put their knowledge to practice in complex, global settings.

International Business

Six faculty-directed programs in Italy, Germany, Iceland, Chile and Portugal drew participation from 105 students. They visited with multinational and local corporations for a deep dive into global management, marketing, operations and innovations, leading to a better understanding of how to be a competitive professional abroad.

Global Strategic Management

Some 20 students engaged in the UK's Global Strategic Management Program, exploring London and its businesses.

This capstone asked students to combine and apply content from prior coursework to the management of complex organizations in a world economy.

Exchanges

The Haslam offers 15 exchange partner options, where its students have the opportunity to study overseas alongside local students for a total immersive experience. In 2023-24, Haslam students enjoyed programs at Macquarie University, Chuo University, Kansai University and Kühne Logistics University.

My time at Kansai Gaidai University has broadened my horizons in both International Business and Japanese studies. Courses ranging from Management to Creative and Culture Industries have provided valuable insights into the perfectly integrated and productive Japanese management practices and business models.

Jada Tun, IB major and exchange student in Kansai University (2024)

Internships

Forty-one Haslam students embarked on international internships across eight countries in 2023-24, gaining practical work experience in dynamic global environments while earning UT credit toward their business degrees. Two locations that saw a growth in enrollment include:

Singapore

Two students interned at Singaporean businesses over the summer, practicing free market economy principles and learning about Singapore's presence in the export market, and focused on covering day-to-day business practices and financials.

Prague

Six students engaged in summer internships, gaining firsthand exposure to Prague's vibrant international economy focusing on finance, business management and entrepreneurship.

Graduate Programs

Study Abroad Participation by Graduate Program

Graduate programs with study abroad elements saw growth in overall participation, with 104 students participating in residency periods abroad. Students from four degree programs experienced economies firsthand across eight international locations, gaining experience in applying concepts learned in the classroom to global contexts.

Figure 8. Study abroad participation by graduate program.

Participation in study abroad

DOUBLED

for the Executive MBA
Global Supply Chain cohorts in the past three years

Life is so much bigger than what you're used to, what you see, what we know in America. It was a blessing to see how their [Chilean] culture is, the life they live, their personalities, but also how differently they do business. Life is a lot bigger than the circle we're in.

Savannah Brown, Full-Time MBA student and graduate research assistant

Professional MBA

A return to...

Santiago, Chile

Professional MBA students traveled with faculty to Santiago, Chile, during Spring Break 2024. During their stay, 17 students met with government organizations, local businesses and consultancy firms to learn about unique challenges to the Chilean economy.

Full-Time MBA

New projects in...

Chile and Argentina

Full-Time MBA students traveled with faculty to Chile and Argentina and developed a consultant project for Domain Bousquet, the largest organic winery in Argentina. More than 30 students collaborated to analyze market conditions and provided a final presentation addressing the organizations' objectives of driving wine consumption in a global market.

Executive MBA — Global Supply Chain

Twenty-eight students engaged in applied learning projects across four countries. In May 2024, students worked on a project for a coconut water company in Vietnam, addressing agricultural and competitive challenges and exploring ways to utilize the entire coconut. They prepared ahead of the trip, toured the company firsthand, and wrapped up by delivering their recommendations to the executives.

The goal of the project for this company was to provide consulting services related to the agricultural and competitive challenges of growing coconuts and how to use the entire coconut for all its components.

Executive MBA — Strategic Leadership

Students participated in international residencies in Dublin, Ireland, and Frankfurt, Germany. More than 25 students learned about political and economic influences that help shape business environments and possible opportunities for foreign investment in each region.

